Robert Half International Named in the 100 Best Companies to Work For List for Second Consecutive Year

Leading specialised recruitment agency Robert Half International (RHI) was again listed as one of the top 100 companies to work for in the UK by The Sunday Times. The company's ranking rose seven places over last year to number 34.

Judges were particularly impressed by RHI's commitment to its core values of honesty, integrity and professionalism, and how these values are embedded in the company's working culture. An overwhelming majority of RHI employees stated that they are proud to work for the company and that it is run on sound moral principles.

RHI also received high marks for staff perceptions of the management team. A culture of promoting from within has contributed to confidence in the company's leadership, the survey showed. The senior management team continue to provide both encouragement and inspiration. RHI offers its employees extensive training programmes to help them advance professionally and become tomorrow's managers.

Phil Sheridan, UK Managing Director of Robert Half International, commented: "Our business is all about people so naturally we are pleased to be recognised as one of the UK's best employers. We strongly believe in investing in our staff and supporting career development whilst creating a positive work environment. Our staff are our most important asset and we owe our success to their ongoing commitment and dedication."

The Sunday Times list is derived solely from the views of employees, which count for 80 per cent of the score. The balance of 20 per cent comes from the policies and processes of employers. The Sunday Times identifies best practices in the UK workplace and ranks companies according to their performance in eight key indicators of employee satisfaction. These eight factors are Leadership, My Manager, Personal Growth, Wellbeing, My Team, Giving Something Back, My Company and Fair Deal. The list contains the views of more than 86,500 employees across more than 500 businesses.
